

JoAnne Weeter, Historic Preservation Consultant, and author. She is the former director of the city of Louisville's Historic Preservation office and was with the city's Historic Landmarks and Preservation Districts Commission for 22 years. She is currently working on a new book on the history of Louisville's Carnegie Libraries. During the summer of 1987, Joanne Weeter traveled to Trimble County, Kentucky to conduct an oral history with artist, and author Harlan Hubbard. The interviews, that are punctuated with the sounds of birds chirping and a dog, Ranger, barking were conducted at Hubbard's home 'Payne Hollow.'
