

Alexandra McIntosh: Writer and teacher living in Kentucky, her favorite place in the world. Her debut collection of poetry, Bowfuls of Blue, was published by Assure Press in 2021. Her background is varied—she received her B.A. in Adventure Leadership from Asbury University in a program that used outdoor activities (backpacking, rock-climbing, and canoeing) as the basis for theoretical discussions about nontraditional education; her M.A. is in English from Northern Kentucky University, where her thesis focused on feminist nature writing; and she earned an MFA in Poetry from Miami University. She currently teaches English and writes poetry and prose contemplating the natural world and our place in it. Alexandra is honored to serve on the Board of the Fort Thomas Forest Conservancy, planning and hosting events at the Harlan Hubbard Studio and Nature Preserve, and overseeing the Hubbard Artist-in-Residence program in conjunction with the Behringer-Crawford Museum. She’s deeply inspired by Harlan and Anna Hubbard and delighted to work with PHOTO to preserve their rich legacy. You can find links to her publications and pictures of her dog on her website AlexandraMcIntosh.com.
